CONTEST and AWARDS DAY

Plan now to enter your students' individual and overall work from 2023 in THSPA'S annual contest. The contest features 49 categories in newspaper, yearbook, literary magazine, broadcast and multimedia.

The THSPA Awards Day is scheduled for Monday, March 4, 2024, at Lipscomb University. All individual awards will be presented on this date along with awards for overall evaluations and awards for the H. L. Hall Student Journalist of the Year, the Bonnie Hufford Adviser of the Year and the Administrator of the Year.

2022-203 yearbooks and magazines may be shipped to THSPA anytime. The entry deadline for all other submissions will be Jan. 13, 2024.

THSPA EXISTS:

- to provide a forum for students who are interested in journalism and student media
- to offer opportunities to network with other members of the association
- to provide an educational opportunity for high school students across the state by hosting speakers and small-group workshops
- to emphasize excellent journalistic writing and coverage in student media
- to maintain the student press as an instrument published by students, for students
- to conduct contests and workshops to encourage greater efforts from students and advisers to produce quality media
- to reward and promote excellence in high-school student media

MEMBERS ALSO...

- are invited to enter the annual Student Media Awards.
- have the opportunity for an in-depth medium critique.
- get a $5 discount per delegate who attends a Fall Workshop in Tennessee
